Bike dealers are crowned world custom champs

A GOLDEN CROSS motorcycle dealership has been crowned world champions in custom bike-building.

Shaw Harley-Davidson, Holmes Hill, clinched the title for modified Harley class of the AMD Official World Championship of custom bike-building in Sturgis, America in August with its entry Strike True II.

Dealer Steve Willis of Shaw Harley-Davidson said, "Winning at the world custom event is a massive achievement, but especially in the first year that we've ever entered."

"The Shaw Harley-Davidson Speed and Custom Shop has been really popular this year and winning the award is the jewel in our crown of establishing ourselves as custom leaders."

The winning bike - which rumbled to victory in the UK heat at Alexandra Palace in February and features a hand-made rear fender, fabricated petrol tank, 1940s style speedster handlebars and custom paintwork - returned home on September 1.
